SMOKING AND CAFFEINE USE

If you smoke or consume caffeine, you should stop at least one to two weeks prior to your surgical procedure and not resume smoking/caffeine use for at least 3 more weeks after surgery. A recent study has shown that smokers/caffeine users are more likely to experience 12 times more wound healing problems than non-smokers/caffeine users. Nicotine and caffeine constrict the blood vessels, restricting blood flow to the skin and other parts of the body that need it most, those areas that are undergoing the healing process. Therefore, smokers/caffeine users are much more likely to experience skin loss, fat necrosis and scarring after a surgical procedure. Although these complications can affect anyone, ceasing to smoke and the consumption of caffeine during the advised periods will greatly decrease your chances that such complications will affect you. Most severe problems with healing of the skin occur with individuals who smoke and use caffeine. Please advise our office if you ingest nicotine or caffeine in any form on a regular basis. We are here to help you, and will be happy to answer any questions.
